

the end of the jungle there was a lovely temple. It seemed to Flora that the diamond was there because it was the end of map is well. Then she saw an old place, it made her mind think she was just in front of the temple and she was!

Carefully Flora opened the door, which was covered in green vines. Then she cried. Nasty thieves were about to give the diamond of truth to a very rich man. When he saw Flora he realised that the diamond belonged to her kingdom and gave it over. At once Flora rushed back to the castle and gave it to her dad. Then the king went outside and saw that his people were honest again. The king hugged his brave daughter with joy for she had found the diamond of truth.

The End!
